

LIE

He was born so tiny and small that the most modern of microscopes probably could not detect him. His actual measurements would have been in the nanometer or smaller lengths.

Very early in his life, he discovered that, in spite of his extremely small size, he had immense power. With the help of a tree and a certain snake, he found that, by shedding only the very smallest part of himself, he could infect whomever he pleased.

He was greatly pleased with his role in causing trouble between man and woman, and between man and man. It was with great glee that he convinced Cain that Abel was a threat to him and certainly would not be missed if Cain decided to do him in. Cain did, and Abel was missed.

He did not let his smallness bother him. He created more and more havoc, bringing hatred and war across the earth. He discovered that man, true to the Father's command to be fruitful and multiply, did, which gave him many more whom he could infect and afflict.

It was through the Father's bountifulness and great love for mankind, whom He had created, that Lie was able to sustain his own existence. Even though Lie never grew to any great size himself, his offspring in mankind became gigantic monsters any father would be proud of.

It became evident to the Father that something would have to change. So He sent His own Son to the earth. He sent him as a baby, with human attributes. The Son grew to manhood. When He was about thirty years old, He began to display His Father's will by teaching, healing, and forgiving. Man barely noticed.

A few, called His disciples, were impacted by the words of Truth he spoke. Then Lie took hold of one of them, and the Son was crucified.

Was this the end? Was this all that the Father had for His children? No! The Son descended to hell, the home of Lie, and took the keys of death from him there. Then he returned to earth to be with his disciples for a short while before He went home to be with His Father.

The Father and the Son sent the Spirit of Truth to live within those who would accept Him. Those who remain in the Truth defeat Lie and will finally come to live in communion with God forever. Whom the Son sets free is free indeed!
